PREFACE

Chicago Jewish History, a quarterly journal published by the Chicago Jewish Historical Society, first appeared in April 1977 as Society News. The name was changed to Chicago Jewish History in March 1989. The first Index covered April 1977 through Winter 2002. This current Index includes issues from April 1977 through Spring 2012 (volume 1, number 1—volume 36, number 1), the first thirty-five years of the Chicago Jewish Historical Society's existence.

The mission of the Chicago Jewish Historical Society is to collect, preserve, and disseminate information on the history of the Jewish community in Metropolitan Chicago. The Society's activities include publications on Chicago Jewish history, open meetings where historical topics are discussed, awards for research in Chicago Jewish history, and oral history interviews with members of the Jewish community. Historical artifacts, books, and ephemera collected by the Society are donated to the archives of the Spertus Institute for Jewish Learning and Leadership.

Thanks to the late Carolyn Eastwood for her assistance in the early phases of the updated indexing. Marci O'Malley did excellent work in entering the contents of the Index in 2012 and 2002 to develop a master file.

Page numbers for authors of articles are printed in bold. Page numbers for speakers or performers at Chicago Jewish Historical Society public meetings are shown in italics. If an author or a subject appears frequently, the inclusive dates of the references are followed by “passim.” The writings of editors of Chicago Jewish History during their terms are noted by name, “editor,” inclusive dates of editorship, and “passim.”
